It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

The Lieutenant Governor then arose and addressed the Senate as follows:

SENATORS—Elected by the people to the office of Lieutenant Governor the Constitution devolves on me the duty of acting as President of the Senate. That duty it is my earnest desire to discharge, courteously, impartially and correctly. I am aware that success will depend much upon that assistance and indulgence which I earnestly bespeak, which I confidently expect Senators will kindly extend to me.

Experience in political life tends to impress men with the folly of a monious discussion and bitter personal strife relative to differences of political opinion, and teaches them that the people, whatever their politics are patriotic, and differ only as to the method of securing the prosperity of the country and the permanence of constitutional Government.

Some of the momentous and exciting questions which have agitated the land have been settled—let us hope forever. And now when the whole country is suffering in consequence of the vast sacrifice of life and treasure incident to the suppression of the rebellion and the preservation of the unity of the Republic, the people of all parties agree in demanding righteousness, unswerving honesty and wise statesmanship in the administration of their affairs.

Let the action of the Empire State be an example to all the other States of such wise and economical administration. They will emulate that example. Then may we reasonably expect that our Federal Government will rest upon an enduring basis, and our own noble State and our beloved Union will again enter upon a career of unexampled prosperity.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, January 5, 1869.

To the Legislature:

Having been elected to the highest office in the gift of the people of the State, I have taken the oath required by the Constitution, impressed with a due sense of my responsibilities, yet indulging the confident hope that by the blessing and favor of Almighty God, who disposes all things, I shall be able so to discharge my duties as to command the approval of my constituents and to promote the welfare of the State. I am not unaware of the embarrassments which surround me. I am here to administer and to execute important public trusts; to reconcile and adjust conflicting interests as great as they are varied; to overcome or moderate sectional prejudices and jealousies which may exist within our own territory to preserve public order; to protect the public works; to endeavor to reduce expenditures, taxation and debt; and to assert and maintain the rights of the State and defend the interests of its citizens.

The fact that neither branch of the Legislature is in political sympathy with the Executive may seem to be an obstacle in the way of the accomplishment of these ends. Relying, however, upon your intelligence and patriotism, trusting that you will rise, as I shall strive to do, above party prejudices and differences, I am ready, with all the ability and energy I possess, to unite with you, as I trust you will unite with me, every effort to secure to those whose representatives we are, the blessing of an economical, a prudent, and a wise government. We cannot be unmindful of the greatness of our State, and the magnitude, variety and importance of its interests and resources. Containing, as it does, more than four millions of people, among whom are represented every nation and every creed; extending, as it does, from the ocean to the great inland lakes, over an area of more than fifty thousand square miles; constituting an empire in extent and population, which can not be well governed except by the exercise of the greatest moderation, wisdom and firmness on the part of the Legislature and the Executive.

The magnificent harbor which lies at our very gates invites to the metropolis of the State and of the whole country the trade and commerce of all foreign lands; while the great lakes upon our borders, and canals and railroads which connect them with the ocean, bear onward to the same metropolis the vast and increasing products of our own western and northwestern States. Hence the unparalleled growth and progress of our great city, which, including what may be properly called its suburbs, numbers more than one-third of the population, and pays more than one-half of the taxes of the State. How such a city can be best governed, how the apparently conflicting interests between it and other portions of the State can be justly harmonized, how the differences of sentiment and thought, political and social, between it and other sections can be adjusted, are problems of serious import. These and other grave questions, growing out of conflicting ideas, will continually present themselves. You are to determine what legislation shall be had with reference to our canals and railroads, our moneyed corporations, our schools and colleges, our asylums, prisons and charities, our great debt and heavy taxes, and to our varied population, differing not only in religious faith, but in views of moral and social obligations, customs and duties. The very magnitude of our territory and of the population within its limits admonishes us that upon these and other kindred subjects it is a necessity that we entertain none but broad and comprehensive ideas. Whatever may be our individual opinions to-day, the great majority of thoughtful men will sooner or later be forced to acknowledge that this great metropolitan State cannot be governed upon any merely provincial theories, or by the enforcement of any narrow-minded, sectional or illiberal policy; and that the masses of the people, while they will demand of their representatives economy in administration, perfect preservation of law and order and certain protection to life and property, will also insist that in every thing which relates to social, domestic and religious life and the pursuit of personal welfare and enjoyment, there shall be no undue or unnecessary legislative or official interference. We must so act as to promote contentment, reconciliation and harmony, rather than to encourage dissension, alienation, and division.

We must not favor legislation which creates, in the minds of a large number of law-abiding citizens, dissatisfaction with law and law-makers. All enactments should be, as far as possible, general in their application. All legislation should be for the whole people. It should be our aim so to conduct public affairs as to avoid those sectional jealousies from which have sprung suggestions that a division of the State might be desirable. State pride and State interests alike forbid such division. New York stands to-day the Empire State of the Union, and, if governed by wisdom, it has before it a career of ever-increasing greatness and prosperity.

There is no real conflict of interest between city and country. Agriculture and commerce together make our State great and prosperous. The merchant and the agriculturist are mutually dependent upon and interested in each other's welfare.

During the past year, the agricultural interests of the State have been greatly favored by Providence. Our fields have yielded large harvests, for which the farmer has found a ready market and abundantly compensating prices. He does not feel, at present, the full weight of the burdens of taxation, and he rejoices in his prosperity. He knows, however, that these burdens must in the end be borne by country and city alike; that he cannot escape his share of them; and that at some time a season of disappointment and trial will come. He therefore unites in an admonition to all in authority that public resources must be husbanded; that no unjust or unnecessary taxes shall be imposed; and that, while in all public affairs a reasonable liberality is to be encouraged, extravagance and waste will be condemned. A large amount of invested capital has been declared by Congress exempt from the taxation which now oppresses nearly every interest in the country; those who bear no portion of the public burdens will never be active in opposing their increase. Some will be always ready to favor projects involving great outlays of public money in enterprises of real or supposed merit, but the great body of the people will not sanction any expenditures or appropriations, the necessity of which is not clearly apparent.

By the Constitution, the Executive is required "to communicate, by message to the Legislature, at every session, the condition of the State, and to recommend such matters to them as he shall judge expedient." I proceed to discharge this duty.

The following is a condensed statement in relation to the finances and indebtedness of the State.

TAXES.

The State tax levied in 1868, was 5 4-5 mills, for the following purposes: For schools, $1\frac{1}{2}$ mill; for general purposes, $1\frac{1}{2}$ mill; for canals, 1 11-195 mill; for bounty debt, 2 1-6 mills, and for the Whitehall and Plattsburgh Railroad, 1-13 mill—total, ten million two hundred and forty-three thousand three hundred and seventeen dollars and one cent (\$10,243,317.01). The State tax levied in 1867 amounted to twelve million six hundred and forty-seven thousand two hundred and eighteen dollars and seventy-one cents (\$12,647,218.71).

STATE DEBT.

On the 30th September, 1867, the total funded debt was forty-eight million three hundred and sixty-seven thousand six hundred and eighty-two dollars and twenty-two cents ($48,367,682.22), classified as follows:

General Fund debt, five million six hundred and forty-two thousand six hundred and twenty-two dollars and twenty-two cents,	$5,642,622 22
Contingent, one hundred and thirty thousand dollars, ...	130,000 00
Canal, fifteen million seven hundred and thirty-three thousand and sixty dollars,	15,733,060 00
Bounty, twenty-six million eight hundred and sixty-two thousand dollars,	26,862,000 00

	$48,367,682 22

On the 30th September, 1868, the total funded debt was forty-four million nine hundred and sixty-eight thousand seven hundred and eighty-six dollars and forty cents ($44,968,786.40), classified as follows:

General Fund debt, four million seven hundred and seven thousand eight hundred and twenty-six dollars and forty cents,	$4,707,826 40
Contingent, sixty-eight thousand dollars,	68,000 00
Canal, fourteen million two hundred and forty-nine thousand nine hundred and sixty dollars,	14,249,960 00

The following statement shows the amount of the State debt on the 30th of September, 1868, after deducting the unapplied balances of the Sinking Funds at that date:

	Debt on the 30th September, 1868.	Balances of the Sinking Funds September 30, 1868.	Balance of debt after applying Sinking Funds.
General Fund,	$4,707,826 40	*$153,178 54	$4,554,647 86
Contingent,	68,000 00	15,517 82	52,482 18

* Includes $260,000 due October 1, 1868, and since paid.
Deducting interest accrued to October 1, 1868, payable January 1, 1869.

It appears from this statement that over six millions of dollars ($6,000,000), balances of sinking funds, have accumulated, applicable to the redemption of the debt, and that the net amount of the State's indebtedness at the end of the fiscal year was only thirty-eight millions eight hundred and sixty-four thousand four hundred and forty-eight dollars and seventy-four cents ($38,864,448.74). The sinking funds, which there is no reason to suppose will be diminished, will, at their present rate of application, extinguish the whole debt within nine years.

There are also ten thousand one hundred and sixty dollars ($10,160) of canal debt, which sum is past due, and does not now bear interest; this is included in my previous statement of canal debt.

The aggregate balance of all Sinking Funds applicable to the canal debt in the treasury, and temporarily invested on the 30th of September, was four million and seventeen thousand two hundred and thirty-two dollars and forty-three cents ($4,017,232.43). These Sinking Funds are pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of the several debts and loans incurred under sections one, three and twelve of article seven of the Constitution, in the construction and enlargement of the canals. The application of the above balance to the several debts, for the payment of which these funds have been provided and set apart, would reduce the above outstanding indebtedness to the sum of ten million three hundred and seven thousand nine hundred and twenty-one dollars and twenty-four cents ($10,307,921.24), as will more fully appear from the following statement:

	Debt 30th September, 1898.	Balance of Sinking Fund, 30th Sept., '98, includ'g temporary investments.	Balance of debt after applying Sinking Funds.
Under art. 7, sec 1, of the Constitution,	$2,240,860 00	$2,316,053 67
Under art. 7, sec. 3, of the Constitution,	10,324,100 00	1,122,520 12	$9,201,579 88
Under art. 7, sec. 12, of the Constitution,	1,685,000 00	578,658 64	1,106,341 36
	$14,249,960 00	$4,017,232 43	$10,307,921 24

It will be seen from the last statement, which is made up by the Canal Department, that the total amount of canal debt is seventy-five thousand one hundred and ninety-three dollars and sixty-seven cents ($75,193.67) in excess of the amount previously stated by me. The first statement is from the Comptroller's books. The explanation of this discrepancy is as follows:

The Canal Debt, under section 1 of article 7 of the Constitution, is two million two hundred and forty thousand eight hundred and sixty dollars.....	$2,240,860 00
The Sinking Fund is two million three hundred and sixteen thousand and fifty-three dollars and sixty-seven cents	2,316,053 67

Excess of sinking fund over debt, seventy-five thousand one hundred and ninety-three dollars and sixty-seven cents $75,193 67
—which the Comptroller has included in the sinking fund applicable to the payment of the residue of the canal debt, and which the Auditor does not include.

The amount carried to the Sinking Fund, under section one is fully sufficient to pay the balance due on the debt originally incurred for the construction of the canals, and known as the Canal Debt of 1846. The extinguishment of this debt makes a further annual appropriation of one million seven hundred thousand dollars ($1,700,000) no longer necessary, and enables the Legislature to apply the surplus revenues to the immediate payment of the General Fund Debt and Enlargement Loans, in accordance with the provisions of sections two and three of article seven of the Constitution.

The Auditor of the Canal Department reports, that the balance due on the General Fund debt for the payment of which the canal revenues are chargeable, is four million five hundred and fifty-four thousand six hundred and forty-seven dollars and eighty-six cents ($4,554,647.86). The annual appropriation of one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) hereafter required by said section two, will be sufficient to pay the principal and accruing interest of this debt in less than four years. The debt contracted by virtue of the provisions of said section three, for the enlargement and completion of the canals, amounting, on the thirtieth of September last, to ten million three hundred and twenty-four thousand one hundred dollars ($10,324,100), matures on an average in less than six years. To supply the sinking fund with the means to pay the interest and redeem the principal of this debt as it falls due, will require an annual appropriation of two million three hundred and forty thousand dollars ($2,340,000). Funds have been provided for the payment of all outstanding claims and liabilities against the State, except such as may have arisen during the last year for awards made by the Canal Appraisers for lands appropriated or occupied for public purposes. The amount of business transacted upon the canals, their general condition, management and supervision, compare favorably with any previous season. Their revenues have been nearly half a million in excess of those of 1867, while their current expenses, for care, superintendence and ordinary repairs, have been over two hundred thousand dollars less than the annual average for the four preceding years.

It affords me great pleasure to congratulate the Legislature and the people of the State upon the fact that the surplus revenues of the canals for the past fiscal year have been sufficient to pay the balance of the canal debt of 1846, satisfy the other requirements of the Constitution, and contribute over a hundred thousand dollars "to defray the necessary expenses of the government."

The Erie canal, by its geographical position and its physical characteristics, has a special and an important relation to the commerce and business not only of our own State, but of the populous and rapidly-growing communities of the great northwest. Connecting the Hudson with the lakes, it is an indispensable link in a chain of water communication, which continues to be of great power and value, notwithstanding the improvements in the methods of land transportation which are characteristic of our times. This work is a trust for the people of this State, whose enterprise and capital have created it; but it is to be administered in a spirit of liberality toward those great populations whose growth has been fostered by it, and whose welfare it continues to affect. To maintain it in a condition of efficiency, and to improve it in a practical manner, as the necessities of business may from time to time demand, is our interest as proprietors, and our policy with reference to the commerce of the State and country. To protect it from embarrassment, arising out of improvident expenditures, ill-considered changes in its structure, or charges upon its revenues, growing out of other undertakings, is an obligation clearly resting upon us. The general plan of its construction and its adaptation to the business for which it was intended, provide a convenient, easy, and an economical means of transportation. The complaints that have arisen, some of which have been made the occasion of demands for fundamental changes in the work, have been provoked mainly by failures in the administration.

The most unnecessary, as well as the most mischievous, of these failures has been the allowing of the water-way of the canal to become narrow at the bottom, and shallow, by neglect to remove the gradual accumulations of earth incident to the use of the work and the lapse of time. The consequences have been that the flow of water has been obstructed, its supply lessened, especially on the short levels, the movement of the boats retarded, the time of transits lengthened, and the cost of transportation increased. Frequent complaints, of a serious character, have also arisen from the failure to make provision for prompt repairs, for keeping the locks in efficient working order, and for doubling them when necessary. All persons doing business on the canals will agree that these evils have been much less during the navigation season of 1868 than before. During and for some time prior to the season of 1867, they were so serious as to greatly impair the efficiency of the canals and to create very extensive dissatisfaction among all persons engaged in the business of transportation. I do not propose now to speak at length in regard to the specific improvements to the making of which such surplus revenues as the State may have at its command should be applied. Upon this subject, I respectfully refer you to the able report of the State Engineer, of which I ask your careful consideration. Besides such general improvements as experience suggests, and the demands of commerce require, it is a constant duty, as well as the best economy, to keep the canals at all times in thorough repair, and in the best and most efficient working condition. It is especially important, that the water-way be restored to its full dimensions, and even be incidentally and progressively enlarged. The considerations which I have submitted are applicable to all the canals in proportion to the extent of their business.

With regard to the present contract system for repairs to the canals, I beg leave to call your attention specially to the following extract from the report of the State Engineer: "The present system of repairs has proved a great disappointment to its early advocates, and, as an experiment, has wholly failed in protecting the interests of the State, and in preserving and maintaining our public works. It has proved to be anything but economical to the State, or beneficial to navigation, and its repeal is earnestly desired by all directly interested in the navigation of the canals, and strongly recommended by all the present and retiring canal officials." These views of the State Engineer meet with my full approval, and I unite in his recommendation. In concluding these remarks, I desire to enter my earnest protest against the proposition, which in some quarters has met with favor, that it is the duty of the general government to interest itself in our canals, and ultimately to acquire control of them. Our State has a just pride in its public works, and is quite competent to take care of them. To foster and protect them, to adapt them fully to the public necessities and to the growing demands of the internal commerce of the country, should be the duty of the Legislative and Executive departments.

SALT SPRINGS.

The Superintendent of the Onondaga salt springs reports the quantity of salt inspected during the last fiscal year at eight million seven hundred and ninety-three thousand five hundred and fourteen bushels (8,793,514), being an increase of production over that of the previous fiscal year of two million sixteen thousand four hundred and fifty-four bushels (2,016,454). The amount of revenue received from all sources was eighty-eight thousand and forty-nine dollars and forty-seven cents ($88,049.47); total expenditures connected with the superintendency of the springs was forty-nine thousand two hundred and thirty-eight dollars ($49,238); the amount of net revenue received by the State being thirty-eight thousand eight hundred and eleven dollars and forty-seven cents ($38,811.47).

For the number of inmates of the several prisons, and other details, I respectfully refer you to the reports of the Inspectors, which will be duly presented.

Our prisons have not been for many years self-supporting institutions. I am satisfied they can be better managed, as well in respect to finances as discipline. The prison system of this State abounds in evils and errors. Many of these are, doubtless, due to the fact that the persons appointed to discharge the duties of agents, wardens and keepers, are too often selected from political considerations only, without reference to their capacity and qualifications. The present contract system for the employment of the labor of the prisoners is an unwise one. It affects very unfavorably the discipline of the institutions, and does not produce satisfactory pecuniary results. The labor of the convicts should be directed and employed entirely by the Prison Superintendents, and the products of such labor should be sold by them for the benefit of the State. This system would remove many existing causes of complaint in regard to convict labor, and result in material advantage to the public.

The law passed some years ago allowing to convicts, for good behavior, a certain number of days' deduction from their terms of imprisonment, by way of commutation of sentence, has been beneficial in its operation; and if, under a system by which the Superintendent should directly employ the labor of the prisoners, provision should be made that a small portion of their earnings be laid aside for their benefit, to be paid to them on the expiration of their sentence, the effect upon their present conduct and future lives would, I think, be useful alike to them and to society. I cannot in this message enter into detailed statements and suggestions of all that is necessary for prison reform. I commend to your consideration the report of the Prison Association, which, under a resolution of the last Legislature, was directed to investigate the financial administration of the State prisons and the reformatory agencies employed in them.

It is time that the great State of New York, throughout which extends such a grand and liberal system of education and charity, should give to this subject of prison management and reform the attention which its importance demands, and which, hitherto, it has failed to receive.

I commend to your favorable consideration the various houses of refuge and other institutions for the reformation of juvenile delinquents. It is wise economy to aid them, and to provide for their increase and extension.

I respectfully call your attention to the present practice of detaining witnesses in criminal cases, when unable to give security for their appearance at the trial of the accused. They are generally poor, sometimes strangers temporarily visiting the State and made the victims of crime, often have families dependent upon them, and are kept in prison upon the claim that public necessity requires their actual presence at the trial. It frequently happens that while the unfortunate witness is in prison, the alleged criminal is at large, on bail. The unnecessary detention of the innocent to convict the guilty is a cruel wrong. I submit whether it cannot be remedied by proper legislation.

INSURANCE.

Inasmuch as the report of the Insurance Department is not due until after the assembling of the Legislature, I am unable to communicate any information in regard to its workings during the past year: I refer you to the report when presented.

BANKS.

The number of financial institutions having relations, more or less intimate, with the Banking Department, on September 30, 1868, was four hundred and eighty-eight (488).

Of these, two hundred and forty-eight (248) were banks that had voluntarily taken the final steps to close their banking business under the laws of this State, by providing for the redemption of their circulation within six (6) years.

Three (3) others are insolvent, but their circulating notes are amply secured. Forty-eight (48) banking institutions, not above enumerated, have been converted into national banks or are otherwise changing their condition, but have not availed themselves of the provisions of the law for finally closing their circulation account.

One (1) trust company and one (1) savings bank are voluntarily winding up their affairs, and one (1) savings bank, the Niagara County, is closing its business in consequence of insolvency, with liabilities, however, supposed to be less than four thousand dollars ($4,000).

Forty-seven (47) incorporated banks, whose charters have expired, still have notes outstanding, for the redemption of which they have not made any final deposit.

One hundred and one (101) savings banks, with an aggregate of deposits exceeding one hundred and fifty millions of dollars ($150,000,000); forty-five (45) banks of discount and deposit, including some of the oldest and most substantial and popular institutions in our State; and four (4) trust companies, with large capital and extensive business, still retain relations with this department, unaffected by the financial changes of the last few years. One of these, The Mechanics' and Farmers' Bank of Albany, has evinced its confidence in the free banking system of the State of New York, by returning to it from the national system, under the provisions of the enabling act of 1867.

One (1) banking association, one (1) trust company, and two (2) or more savings banks, have been organized during the year, and other banking associations have filed certificates, but have not taken the final steps to organization precedent to the transaction of business.

The whole amount of circulating notes of all banks in this State, outstanding and charged to their accounts, on the 1st day of October last, was two million nine hundred and fifty-four thousand three hundred and ninety-one dollars ($2,954,391); of this one million six hundred and sixty-five thousand eight hundred and fifty-five dollars ($1,665,855), were issues of free banks, one million two hundred and eighty-eight thousand five hundred and thirty-six dollars ($1,288,536) were issues of Safety Fund and Incorporated Banks. The amount for which securities were held by the Superintendent of the Banking Department was two million and twelve thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight dollars ($2,012,768), leaving unsecured nine hundred and forty-one thousand six hundred and twenty-three dollars ($941,623). But this consists, for the most part, of notes of very old banks, and is represented by their account of supposed lost circulation, or of banks that through some form of organization still redeem their notes dollar for dollar, and in some instances in gold.

The amount of circulating notes returned to the Bank Department and destroyed during the last fiscal year, was nine hundred and ninety-one thousand two hundred and seventy-three dollars ($991,273).

MILITIA.

The Adjutant-General reports that the National Guard of the State is, in its organization and discipline, in a sound and prosperous condition; that it numbers between twenty-five thousand (25,000) and thirty thousand (30,000) men, and consists of—

Fifty regiments of infantry.
 Three battalions of infantry.
 One regiment of artillery.
 Three battalions of artillery.
 Three batteries of artillery.
 Three regiments of cavalry.
 Two battalions of cavalry.
 One squadron of cavalry.

The Legislature of 1868 authorized a reduction of the maximum force from fifty thousand (50,000) to thirty thousand (30,000), and during the year forty-nine (49) regiments of infantry and two (2) battalions of artillery have been disbanded.

It will be my aim to reduce, as far as possible, the military expenses of the State, without impairing the efficiency of the State National Guard.

EDUCATION.

The condition of the Colleges and Academies of the State will appear from the Annual Report of the Board of Regents of the University. The opening of the Cornell University, at Ithaca, in October last, was an event of marked interest. The widely extended influence of the Academies in the State entitle them to liberal consideration. A suggestion has been made that the annuity given, more than thirty years ago, from the United States Deposit Fund, might now, with propriety, be increased. The State Library and the State Cabinet of Natural History, both under the control of the Regents of the University, are in a satisfactory condition. The additions to the Library, during the past year, have been larger than usual. The collections of the State Cabinet have been greatly increased. I recommend the usual appropriations for both.

I submit the following statement in relation to the Common Schools, for the year ending September 30, 1868:

Four Normal schools for the training of teachers are in full operation. Two others will be opened early in the present year, and two more early in the year 1870.

It is not necessary for me to urge upon you the importance of doing whatever may be necessary to foster the educational interests of the State.

CHARITIES AND ASYLUMS.

In relation to the operation of the several public charities and asylums in the State, I respectfully refer you to the official report, which will be transmitted.

The commission of Public Charities was organized under an act of the Legislature of 1867. During the past year nearly all the charitable institutions of the State, both public and private, and also the poor-houses, have been visited under the authority of the Board. Until the creation of this commission, notwithstanding the large annual contributions of the State to charitable institutions, no provision existed for any systematic supervision or examination of them. The report, which will soon be submitted, will, I doubt not, present many interesting facts, and valuable suggestions. I commend all the great charities of the State to the favorable consideration of the Legislature, and recommend such additional legislation as may be necessary to increase the efficiency of the commission.

The title to the Inebriate Asylum at Binghamton, is, under the operation of the law passed in 1867, vested in the State. No provision was made by that law for the government of the institution, and its management is still in the hands of the trustees under the charter. I submit to the Legislature whether any changes should be made in its administration.

THE NEW CAPITOL.

The commissioners of the new capitol, in pursuance of an act of the Legislature, have caused the additional land deemed requisite for the building, to be taken by appraisement. The jury of appraisal, selected under the proceedings in the Supreme Court, was composed of citizens of the highest respectability, and their awards are unquestioned. Plans for the building have been adopted, and contracts for part of the material for its foundation have been authorized. The site of the building has been fixed upon. I trust there will be no delay in the progress of this work, and recommend such legislation, with reference to it, as may be necessary.

QUARANTINE AND PUBLIC HEALTH.

The past year has been one of more than ordinary exemption from imported disease. This has arisen rather from natural causes than from any increase of our facilities for warding off its approach. The State has long rested under the charge of having enacted stringent laws for the protection of her citizens from the introduction of pestilence through her chief commercial port, without having provided proper means for their execution. With a commerce which extends to almost every clime, and with a tide of immigration which yearly adds hundreds of thousands to our population, we are constantly exposed to the introduction of infectious diseases. The Legislature early appreciated the necessity of guarding against this danger, but the mode by which it could be accomplished was surrounded with difficulties which checked, and for a while defeated, appropriate legislation. It is believed, however, that when the measures authorized by existing laws shall have been perfected, the State will no longer rest under the reproach of imposing duties upon its officers which it has left them, in a measure powerless to execute.

At the session of 1866 an act was passed constituting the Commissioners of Quarantine and the Mayors of the Cities of New York and Brooklyn a Board of Commissioners to perform certain duties, among which was the erection of a structure on West Bank, in the lower bay, of New York, to be used for a quarantine hospital. Pursuant thereto, the Board, in the month of August of that year, awarded the contract for the erection of the structure; but they were delayed by an injunction from executing the contract until the 11th of September following. Owing to this delay, it was not until the 14th of January, 1867, that the first crib work, which was to constitute the foundation of the structure, was sunk in its proper position. The inclemency of the weather soon after compelled the temporary suspension of the work, but it was resumed, and from time to time prosecuted as the elements permitted, until the foundation was completed. It is now considered to be in proper condition for the erection of the buildings thereon, and it is probable that these will be finished during the present season.

The erection of this structure was regarded as a very doubtful experiment, by many who believed that the first attempt would demonstrate its impracticability at so exposed a point in the waters of the bay. But I am advised by competent judges that its success can no longer be considered problematical.

In performing the duties enjoined upon them the Board found themselves embarrassed by the restrictions of the act by which they were created. It authorized them to enter into a contract for the erection of the structure, but, in terms, gave them no power to modify it or to guard against emergencies or to make alterations which might prove to be necessary in the progress of the work. A recent and severe storm has tested the strength of the structure more thoroughly than it had before been tried. It stood the test; nevertheless I would suggest that an addition to the rip-rap should be made for still further security.

In view of doubts existing as to the powers of the Board, I recommend such legislation as may be necessary to enable them to accomplish their work.

By an act passed at the session of 1868, the same Board was authorized to erect another structure on West Bank, to be used for a boarding-station for quarantine purposes. Pursuant to that act they have entered into a contract and I am advised that the work is now in successful progress. Only fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) was appropriated by the act, but it was generally supposed that a sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) which had been appropriated in the Supply Bill of 1867, for the erection of a place for the temporary detention of passengers under quarantine, could be applied to this purpose. A doubt, however, has been suggested, whether the act of 1867 is not, in this respect, wholly superseded by a subsequent enactment. I respectfully recommend whatever legislation may be necessary to complete this work, so essential to the due administration of our quarantine system.

The report of the Commissioners, which will be laid before you, will contain the statistics in reference to diseases treated under quarantine during the past year.

CATTLE DISEASE.

During the past summer a contagious disease, known as the Texas cattle disease, made its appearance in the Western States, and measures were immediately adopted by the commissioners appointed for the purpose to prevent its introduction into our State. These measures, I am happy to say, proved so successful that but few animals died of the disease, and in every instance it was confined to the farms on which it originally appeared. A full report will be presented to the Legislature at an early day. It is estimated that within this State there are twelve hundred thousand (1,200,000) cattle, the annual amount of their products being upward of twenty-four million of dollars ($24,000,000). The protection of this source of wealth is a matter of so much importance to our agricultural population as to merit the continued attention of the Legislature. I am informed that the act for the prevention of infectious diseases among cattle, passed April 20, 1866, needs amendment in order to enable the commissioners to act with the efficiency necessary to secure the objects of the law. I recommend the subject to the careful consideration of the Legislature.

IMMIGRATION.

During the past year the number of alien immigrants landed at the port of New York was 213,708, showing a decrease from 1867 of 29,023. This decrease may be attributed to the still unsettled condition of political affairs, and the competition of other States, which, in order to attract immigration to themselves, have established direct steam communication with European countries. The Commissioners of Emigration during the past year have improved the lands and buildings and the facilities for caring for the sick and destitute on Ward's Island. They have also established a labor exchange in connection with the landing depots at Castle Garden, by means of which they have been enabled to supply the demand for labor from various parts of the country, and to secure immediate employment for many immigrants. Over thirty thousand orders for male and female immigrant labor have been filled from this bureau of the department. For more detailed accounts of the workings of the Emigrant Commission, you are respectfully referred to the annual report, which will shortly be communicated to you.

For information in regard to the various other commissions in the Metropolitan district, and other district commissions and boards in the State, I respectfully refer you to the several reports, which will be duly transmitted.

CIVIL AND CRIMINAL CODES, ETC.

The codes prepared by the two commissions organized under the Constitution, have heretofore been presented to the Legislature. The Practice Commission, created pursuant to the twenty-fourth section of the sixth article, has reported codes of civil and criminal procedure; and the Code Commission, created pursuant to the seventeenth section of the first article, has reported civil, penal and political codes. A book of forms has also been prepared, adapted to the code of civil procedure. These volumes were designed to lay before the people, in a concise and systematic form, the whole body of the law, common and statutory, with formulas for general use. Much labor has been expended by the commissioners upon their work, which has commanded considerable public attention. The code of civil procedure has been, to a great extent, adopted by sixteen States and territories; the code of criminal procedure by ten of them; and the civil and penal code, the last reported, has been adopted by two of the territories. In view of the great importance attached to the subjects embraced in these various reports, I commend them to your early consideration.

If they do not command the approval of the Legislature, I respectfully suggest the propriety of prompt action to secure a new revision of the statutes of the State, as well as an immediate reform in our criminal laws.

I particularly recommend that provision be made by statute that in all cases of murder, where the degree of premeditation, or the circumstances attending the homicide do not, in the opinion of the jury, justify punishment by death, they may render a verdict of murder of a less degree, to be punished by imprisonment for a term of years, the maximum of which shall be fixed by law.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICTS AND COMMISSIONS.

The Constitution of the State, in terms, recognizes for the purposes of local government, counties, cities, towns and villages, and no other territorial divisions. It directs that all officers, whose appointment is not provided for by it, shall be elected by the electors or appointed by the authorities of the locality within which their powers are to be exercised, distinctly recognizing the right of electors in local communities to choose their own officers, and, as they bear their own burdens, to administer their own affairs. The plain spirit of the Constitution has been clearly violated in the creation by the Legislature of other geographical divisions than those fixed and established by the organic law. It is true, the highest court of the State, by a bare majority vote, held this legislation valid; but it has, nevertheless, been very generally admitted to have been a partisan contrivance for power, and if not an open violation, at least an evasion of the Constitution. One of these districts, called the Metropolitan district, embraces the counties of New York, Kings, Westchester and Richmond. The people of these counties, and of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, have thus been deprived of the right of managing their own local affairs in many important particulars, especially with reference to matters of health, police, and excise, and these interests have been committed to officers appointed by State authority, who do not represent the majority of the inhabitants of the respective counties.

The effect has been, virtually, to give to the political minority in these districts the power of governing the majority. This never was contemplated by the framers of the Constitution, whose manifest intention was that power and responsibility should go together. I unhesitatingly recommend the repeal of all laws creating these district commissions, and the restoration to the people of every county and city in the State of the constitutional power to regulate and manage their own local affairs. Whatever theory may have been advanced originally in regard to the necessity of these commissions, the fact is indisputable that they have been established only over localities and communities which were not in political sympathy with the dominant party in the Legislature. I recommend the repeal, not only because the legislation to which I object is a usurpation of power and an evasion of the Constitution, but also because the commissions themselves have been to a great extent partisan in their character and conduct, and because the majority of the people in the respective districts have had no effective representation in them; and these commissions being controlled by authority foreign to the communities in which they exist, and owing no responsibility to the people governed, have been administered without regard to popular rights.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

Questions relating to municipal government in our great cities have immediate connection with the subject to which I have just referred. It is a favorite theory with some that the people of such cities cannot safely be intrusted with the management of their own affairs, and that the State at large is so directly interested in their good government that it should assume entire control over them. No man can assent to this without admitting that our republican form of government is a failure. About one-half of the population of the State reside within the limits of cities; and this theory, if true, would necessarily lead to the conclusion that one-half of our people are unfit to exercise the duties and enjoy the privileges which pertain to the citizens of a free government.

In the city of New York, which may properly be selected as an illustration of my views, the advocates of this false doctrine have, for many years, had an opportunity to try their experiment. They are themselves to-day forced to admit that it has resulted in a failure. The mayor of the city, its chief magistrate, to whom the people naturally look for a redress of grievances, is deprived of nearly all the powers which properly belong to the executive. There is no department in the city government which is not independent of him, and which does not dispense more patronage and exercise more power than he. The Departments of Police, Health, Excise, Public Charities and Fire, are controlled and directed by separate and distinct commissions, acting independently of each other and of the mayor. He has no voice in any of these. He can issue no order to any of them. He can call none of them to account. There is no connection between them and the common council of the city, nor between them and the departments proper of the municipal government, although the local authorities are compelled to raise money for their support and maintenance. The result is, as must always be expected in any government so made up and to which there is practically no executive head, confusion, clashing interests, want of harmony, absence of responsibility, extravagance, waste and general inefficiency. I do not intend to be understood as saying that there are not many things well done; but I affirm that this system, or rather want of system, and this conflict of authority and responsibility, have failed to produce good local government. Among the various commissions the one which has, perhaps, accomplished the most satisfactory results, is the Commission of Public Charities and Corrections, the members of which are appointed by local authority. It has always remained since its creation entirely non-partisan. Its administration has commanded general approval. These facts of themselves afford abundant proof that there is not now, and never was, any necessity or justification for the interference by the Legislature with the plain constitutional right of the people of the city to regulate and manage their own local affairs.

About one-half the amount raised by tax within the city is disbursed by the independent commissions referred to, whose expenditures are subject to no adequate supervision, and who have practically no responsibility. One of the most certain means of correcting misgovernment is direct responsibility to the people, who, through the ballot box, have summary power of redress. It is the right of the people of that city, as it is the right of the people of all other parts of the State, that they should not be taxed without representation, as well as that the officials placed over them should recognize their direct accountability to the popular judgment. When officers placed over the people, by legislative action, expend money or incur responsibility, they do not consider the constituency who pay the bills. They regard themselves as invested with authority by partisan influences from other parts of the State, to secure political ends—and whether they are faithful or inefficient, prudent or reckless and corrupt in expenditure, just, or arbitrary and oppressive, they are apt to believe their party will sustain them as a matter of party necessity.

Experience proves that such officials, imposed, for partisan objects, to usurp power for the minority, consider that a harsh and imperious disregard of the rights of the majority is likely to commend them to those in other parts of the State to whom alone they owe allegiance. This feeling on the part of the superior officers soon infuses itself among the subordinates. The result is, that the government becomes an inconsiderate tyranny rather than a temperate and responsible exercise of authority. If this were otherwise, and the people were not taxed and governed without any right of redress, every dollar paid for taxation would draw with it direct responsibility, and every officer would feel himself at all times on trial for his public acts. No party could long maintain local ascendancy which did not nominate the best men for office; and did not, by economy and good government, make their control of affairs consistent with the interests of the people.

These considerations are applicable, not alone to the cities of New York and Brooklyn, but to all other cities in the State, which have been brought under the operation of laws establishing district commissions.

I deem it my duty in this, my first annual message, to give decided expression to my opinion that no good government can be secured to any great city unless it shall have one responsible head, in whom shall be vested all executive power, and to whom, as the elected representative of the people, all departments charged with executive duties shall be directly and summarily responsible and accountable.

If, with this as the fundamental idea, a plan shall be devised which will give to the political minority within a city a just representation in its councils, we shall, doubtless, secure better results in municipal government than have ever before been attained.

I respectfully call the attention of the Legislature to another subject, in which the people of the city of New York have and feel a deep interest. The commercial needs of the metropolis demand that there should be some speedy and wise legislation with reference to its wharves and piers. They should be constructed after the very best plan for making them convenient, adequate and enduring. The work should be commenced as soon as possible.

The question of probable cost is of but little importance. The city can well afford to pay whatever may be necessary to complete the work; when completed it would, by the aid of proper legislation in relation to wharfage, yield a revenue sufficient to pay the interest on the expenditure, and to create a sinking fund for the speedy extinguishment of the debt incurred in the construction. It is not necessary that I should commit myself to any particular form of legislation for the accomplishment of this result, but I would respectfully recommend, by way of suggestion, that if it should be deemed impossible to mature a plan during the present session, the mayor of the city of New York be authorized to appoint a board, with authority to examine the whole subject, and to report to the next Legislature, for its consideration, a plan of the proposed work, with an estimate of its probable cost, and such suggestions, with reference thereto, as they may deem proper.

THE EXCISE LAW IN THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT.

The Excise law which is in force throughout the Metropolitan district, excepting only in the county of Westchester (which was, for some reason, exempted by the Legislature from its operation), violates principles involving rights of individuals and communities. It confers upon the Excise Board created by the Legislature, and deriving none of its authority from the people in the district, extraordinary and arbitrary powers; and contains, in my judgment, many harsh and unwise provisions. If the objects of its enactment were to diminish the amount of intemperance, and to lessen the consumption of intoxicating liquors, these objects have not been attained. At the same time, this law has been executed and enforced in an arbitrary, despotic, and intemperate manner, and in a spirit which has created great dissatisfaction even among many who were its original supporters; while large numbers of sober, temperate, industrious and law-abiding citizens feel that they are oppressed by its onerous exactions and requirements. No one deplures more than I do the evils of intemperance; but they are not local, are not confined to any section or district, and if they can be checked or modified by legislation, the remedy can only be secured by the operation of general laws. There is no reason, in my judgment, why the whole, or any portion of the Metropolitan district should be subjected to an excise law different from that applied to other parts of the State. All such laws should be universal in application, and should have for their object not the enforcement of extreme and arbitrary views, but the encouragement of good habits and the preservation of public order. The present law needlessly violates private rights. It provokes hostility because it does so, and because it is administered harshly by partisan officers. I therefore recommend its repeal, so that we may have but one law for the whole State, to be administered, whether in counties or in cities, by the legally constituted local authorities thereof, or by officers to be appointed by them. Such a law would command universal respect and general obedience.

PURITY OF ELECTIONS.

Every means should be adopted by which the electors may have secured to them freedom from intimidation or corrupt influences in the exercise of the elective franchise—the highest privilege of a citizen. It cannot be denied that wealth, by its lavish expenditure to control elections, is fast becoming more influential than abilities and public service, to obtain political power and official station. It is not unusual to hear the claims of public men asserted in proportion to the pecuniary contributions which they make to party funds in amounts which obviously cannot be required or used for the legitimate purposes of an election. It is one of the startling evils of the times, that nominations to important offices are sought by and given to men of vast wealth, not because of their capacity and qualifications, but in order that their money may be used to accomplish success. The dangers arising and to be apprehended from this condition of things are manifold. Officials are taught that money, however acquired, is the passport to office and authority; electors are corrupted, and a power is built up, founded on the possession of riches and their corrupt use, tending to the subversion of the rights and liberties of the people, and the destruction of the principles of our government. As one result of this growing tendency of moneyed influences to assert an exclusiveness of class, and a superior domination, sectional and class legislation has been adopted of late years to control, even in regard to suffrage, large communities by special laws not applicable to other parts of the State. Before the law all men are equal, and never more so than when in the performance of their right and duty of voting to sustain principles, and to elect their representatives. Laws to provide regulations and restrictions in regard to elections should apply to all citizens and to all sections alike. The laws to preserve the purity of the ballot-box and to prevent the corrupt use of money in elections should be general, stringent, and rigorously enforced. In my judgment there should be one registry law for the whole State, imposing equal conditions and restrictions everywhere, and it should be the aim thereof to secure to every citizen his right of suffrage, free from intimidation, corruption, or onerous exactions; while the corrupt use of money in elections should be severely punished, and every guaranty established by which illegal voting may be prevented.

FEDERAL CENTRALIZATION.

In this connection it may not be improper to allude to the fact that there is a manifest disposition in some quarters to encourage a movement to vest in Congress the control and regulation of suffrage in all the States. This is another step in the direction of centralized power in the general government—a power to control elections—which would enable dangerous and unscrupulous men, who might obtain possession of the national administration, to hold it indefinitely, even against the real will of the people. It is very certain that purity of elections in States cannot be secured by transferring the direction or control of them to the authorities at Washington. There can be no purity in the general government unless it exists first in the States and in the people. The founders of our government never contemplated the interference of Congress in this matter. They expressly guarded against it.

By the Federal Constitution "the times, places and manner" of holding elections for Senators and Representatives are required to be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof; but it is provided that Congress may at any time make or alter such regulations except as to the places of choosing Senators. This authority to prescribe regulations as to "the time, places and manner" of holding elections, was contested at the adoption of the Constitution as vesting in Congress too great a power, which might be exercised so as to defeat the just rights of the States to representation—but it was argued that it was a power which never was intended to be, and probably never would be, employed, except when the States might attempt to break up the government by not sending representatives, and then only for national self-preservation. But the question of suffrage was wisely put beyond the control of Congress, and it was provided that "the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature." This settlement of the right of suffrage was regarded "as a fundamental article of republican government." The question of suffrage is thus withdrawn from the capricious or more dangerous interference of Congress. It is not left to legislative discretion in the States, but is fixed by the State Constitutions, and here, I think, every reflecting mind will conclude that it may be wisely and safely left.

NATURALIZATION AND CITIZENSHIP.

There is also a disposition manifested to place obstacles in the way of the naturalization of citizens. While, in the Southern States the right of free and unrestricted suffrage has been suddenly conferred upon large masses of men, who have never before exercised it or discharged any other of the duties of citizens, it is now suggested that new restrictions be imposed upon the enjoyment of this high privilege by immigrants who seek to be clothed with the rights of American citizenship. Movements have been already made for depriving the State courts of the power of naturalization, and to confer this power exclusively upon the courts of the United States, and upon commissioners to be appointed by Congress. It would be impossible for the judges of the United States Courts, by reason of the pressure of their judicial duties and the few places in the country at which the sessions of their courts are held, to extend the necessary facilities to those entitled to become citizens. The whole business would necessarily devolve upon the partisan commissioners created by Congress, holding no responsible official relation to the judiciary of the country or of the States. Thus, naturalization would become more a matter of favor than of right. The power is now exercised by judges in the different States representing all shades of political faith, and if there be any abuses now, they can be remedied under the existing jurisdiction, and they are far less than those which would result from the transfer of this power to any body of officials not chosen for their judicial qualifications, not exercising judicial functions in other matters, and created by one central authority representing necessarily a political party. These movements indicate a tendency on the part of their supporters to obstruct and hinder naturalization, and thus to discourage the renunciation, by men from other countries, of their allegiance to foreign governments in order to become faithful citizens of our own. Can this policy be a wise one? All good citizens will certainly favor such legislation as may be necessary to check or to punish frauds in naturalization. But the interests of our State and country, peopled from their origin by, and owing so much of their greatness to, men of foreign birth, and to which the tide of immigration so incessantly and rapidly flows, demand that additional rather than diminished facilities should be extended to all those of good moral character and of undoubted devotion to our institutions, who, having chosen their homes among us, desire to assume the duties and responsibilities of citizens.

We must not forget that, during the late war, when our country needed them to fight the battles of the Union, we extended to them the privileges of citizenship after one year's residence and an honorable discharge, as one of the rewards for their fidelity to the government. Now, in the time of peace, their services are quite as valuable in developing the resources of our new territories and of the Southern States, and in assisting, by their industry and toil, to work out a practical solution of the great problem of reconstruction; and every inducement should be extended to them.

CONCLUSION.

Few questions of principle or policy will be presented for your consideration, towards the decision of which precedent or experience will not furnish you an accurate guide, or, at least, effective aid. We need only, to the discharge of our trusts in our respective departments, grave, responsible, and numerous as they are, an earnest spirit, a constant and vigilant regard for the public interests, and an unceasing watchfulness in maintaining the integrity, honor and dignity of the State. With these we cannot fail to meet the just expectations of the people.

But beyond the limits of our jurisdiction, there are questions and principles of far wider significance than those which engage our official consideration; which appeal to us as citizens of a common country; which press upon the people in the form of unequal responsibilities; and in which we all have a deep and abiding interest. I allude to the national issues which await solution. I do not intend to refer to them in a partisan spirit, or to discuss them at length. These issues have presented new and difficult questions of government, of finance and taxation, resulting from the rebellion, and we are without guides in previous history to lead us to their determination. Nearly four years have elapsed since the close of the rebellion, and the Federal authorities have had unrestricted power to re-establish civil government in the States rescued from sedition, and restore to their people peace and the motives to industry; and yet how little has been done towards these ends!

Had they been attained, the South would now be enabled to bear its share of the taxation entailed by the war, and the North relieved of its unequal responsibility, while the whole country, resuming its former commercial relations, would be so far advanced in prosperity and power that in a few years our financial troubles would cease to be the subject of anxiety. Instead of securing these results, Congress has directed its efforts to the suppression of representation, and the subversion of republican government in States, prolonging the subserviency of the civil to the military power, and postponing the return of peace. The people, at the late election, have chosen by their suffrage the Chief Magistrate to whose guidance they are willing to commit the destinies of the country, and the settlement of the issues which disturb it. These questions do not belong to party, but to the whole country; and it should be our earnest prayer that he who has been thus chosen shall prove equal to the great trust with which he is charged.

Party organizations must be kept up as the means of preserving great principles and maintaining the integrity of the Government and the liberties of the people. The majority of the citizens of this State who opposed the policy of the present dominant party in the country and the election of its candidate for the Presidency, adhere firmly to their views of public policy, the adoption of which they believe will afford the earliest and best settlement of the great questions which now distract us. They will, however, lay aside all merely partisan considerations, and join in a common spirit of magnanimity and patriotism in sustaining any administration of the Federal government in every earnest effort which it shall make to restore its credit, to maintain the public faith, to re-establish the authority of the Constitution, to unite all our people in amity and concord, to give peace and prosperity to all sections of the Union and to assert, among nations, the honor of our flag and the rights of those who claim its protection.

There is a spirit of party intolerance growing up which not only arrays men in bitter political hostility, but which creates personal hatred through mere differences of opinion. It follows the elected representatives of the people with detraction and misrepresentation, and impairs their usefulness in the discharge of important trusts involving the public welfare. I consider this a dangerous evil. Public officers, both Federal and State, should be judged by and held responsible for their acts, and not prejudged by clamor and party intolerance; nor should they be intimidated by either. My duty is defined by the oath I have taken to execute the laws of this State and to support its Constitution and the Constitution of the United States. I shall endeavor to do it faithfully; and while I shall uphold and maintain the political doctrines and principles to which I am devoted, and assert and defend the rights of the State and of the people whose representative I am, I will, as the Executive of this State support the Executive of the United States in every exercise of rightful authority, and in every patriotic effort for the welfare of our common country. The people will approve. War no longer claims offerings of lives and treasure; Peace now demands the sacrifice of prejudices and passion.

To the Senate: The committee appointed in pursuance of the resolutions of your honorable body, adopted April 10, 1868, and May 1, 1868, to investigate certain charges of bribery upon measures relating to railway companies, respectfully report, that they have taken a large amount of testimony upon the subject of the investigation, and would now be prepared to close the evidence with a view to making their report, but for the failure of certain witnesses to attend in obedience to the subpoena issued by the chairman of your committee. Your committee have reason to believe, from the evidence before them, that Mr. Henry Thompson of New York has knowledge on the subject of the investigation, and that the testimony should not be closed without his evidence.

Mr. Thompson has been twice subpoenaed to attend before your committee, as will appear by the verified returns of the officers of the Senate herewith presented, but has failed to obey such subpoena and has offered no excuse for such failure.

Your committee therefore submit the matter to the Senate and request that the Sergeant-at-Arms may be directed to take the said witness into custody to be brought before the bar of the Senate to be dealt with as your honorable body shall deem proper; or that your honorable body may take such other action in the premises as may seem expedient.

Dated February 12, 1869.

in rebellion were exerting every power and influence to accomplish the dismemberment of this country and the overthrow of our government, and the requirement became urgent and imperative for additional forces to resist the attempted usurpation by the so-called Confederate States, the Federal Government pledged itself by specific legislative enactment, and guaranteed to each volunteer mustered into the service of the United States, a bounty of $100, for the term of one year, unless sooner discharged; and whereas, the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution ordains expressly that the validity of debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services rendered in suppression of the rebellion shall not be questioned; and whereas, the Federal authorities have continued to withhold one-third of the amounts claimed by such volunteers, on the pretext that such volunteers were discharged before the expiration of the year, such volunteers having entered the service in good faith; therefore,

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1869.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Mayer.

The journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Mr. Folger presented a petition of William W. Clarke and others, for a savings bank in Canandaigua, which was read and referred to the committee on banks.

A message from His Excellency the Governor was received and read, in the words following:

To the Senate: I return without my signature an act entitled "An act to amend section 1 of chapter 404 of the Laws of 1868, relative to building a bridge at Fort Covington."

The original act authorized the commissioners of highways of the town to borrow three thousand dollars to be expended in rebuilding a bridge across the Salmon river. The present bill increases the amount to four thousand dollars. By a general act passed April 3, 1849, entitled "An act to vest in the boards of supervisors certain legislative powers," &c., it was provided among other things "that such boards in the several counties of the State (except New York) might authorize any town in their respective counties to borrow any sum, not exceeding four thousand dollars in one year to build or repair any roads or bridges in such town, and prescribe the time for the payment of the same, which time shall be within ten years, and for assessing the principal and interest thereof upon such town." This general law rendered any special legislation in regard to the bridge at Fort Covington wholly unnecessary. The subject properly belonged to the board of supervisors, which for such and certain other purposes is the county Legislature. In a message which I communicated to the Assembly on the 11th instant, in returning a bill without my signature, I called attention to the fact that applications for special legislation in cases covered by general laws pressed heavily upon the valuable time of public men, and increased largely the public expenses, and I suggested that special legislation should always be refused in cases covered by general enactments.

I feel it to be my duty to take every proper opportunity to urge these views upon the consideration of the Legislature, and to do all in my power to check an evil which has grown to be one of great magnitude.

versity, or of his military assistant, approved by the president thereof, ordnance and ordnance stores, and camp and garrison equipage in amount and kind as may from time to time be necessary for the purpose of instruction at that University in military tactics; and in case suitable arms and equipage are not in the State arsenals, the Governor is authorized to procure the same by requisition on the United States; provided, however, that no public property be issued under this resolution unless security for the safe keeping and return thereof be first given by said University; and, provided further, that in case of need by the State at any time of the property of the State so issued, the same may be demanded and recovered by the Governor; and, provided further, that no requisition shall be complied with by the Governor unless in his opinion the State can safely do so.

Conover, deceased, all the powers and duties of executor and trustee under such will," reported that the committee have had the same under consideration and have come to the conclusion to report adversely thereto.

The committee does this for the reason that it deems the provisions of law now existing ample for the ends which it seems from the bill are sought to be reached by it.

There is no petition or other statement of facts accompanying the bill, but from the bill itself and from oral statements of persons interested, it appears to the committee, that Gustavus A. Conover died leaving a last will and testament, in which he created certain trusts and powers, and gave certain directions, and named an executor who was intute officii, to execute the trusts and powers and to carry out the directions of the will.

This executor has since died, leaving the will unexecuted, and John T. Conover, named in the will, has been duly appointed the administrator with the will annexed.

By this appointment John T. Conover has all the usual powers of that office.

And as the committee understand the law and the practice and jurisdiction of the courts, an application to the proper tribunal will, upon a proper case being presented, result in power being given to the administrator with the will annexed, or to some suitable person, to execute and carry out the trusts and powers of the will and all directions contained in it not coming within the scope of the office of administrator with the will annexed.

The committee refer to the cases following, as sustaining this view: In re Van Wyck, 1 Barb. Ch., 565. De Peyster v. Clendinning & Paige, 295.

Dated Feb. 18, 1869.

MONDAY, MARCH 8, 1869—7½ O'CLOCK, P. M.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Selkirk.

The Journal of Friday, Feb. 26th, was read and approved.

The Private Secretary of the Governor appeared in the Senate chamber and presented a message from the Governor, in the words following:

STATE OF NEW YORK—EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
ALBANY, March 8, 1869. }

To the Senate: I return without my signature a bill entitled "An act to provide for filling vacancies in the office of justice of the peace in Lowville, Lewis county," which was passed by the Senate February 16, 1869, and in the Assembly February 24, 1869.

There are general laws (see Revised Statutes and chapter 476 of the Laws of 1859,) for providing for filling vacancies in the office of justice of the peace throughout the State.

If the general laws are defective the public interest demands that they be amended. The time of the Legislature should not be occupied, nor should the Senate books be incumbered with special acts providing for filling such vacancies in particular towns.

Again, this bill devolves the power of appointment, in case of vacancy, not upon any officers definitely described, but simply upon "the board, as now provided by law." The general laws prescribe that these vacancies shall be filled by warrant, under the hands and seals of certain town officers, or of a majority of them; but these officers are not constituted a "board," nor recognized as a "board" for such purpose. I call the attention of the Senate to this inaccuracy in the terms of the bill, because it affords an illustration of the evils of special legislation. Careful examination is not usually given to bills, and the result is the frequent enactment of laws not only unnecessary but ill-considered.

The bill also declares, among other things, that after willful refusal or neglect of duty, for the space of thirty days, by a justice of the peace in Lowville, his office shall be deemed vacant." It seems to contemplate no trial or investigation. The Constitution provides (Article 6, section 17,) that a justice can be removed from office only after due notice, and an opportunity of being heard in his defense, by such county, city or State courts as may be designated by law, for causes to be assigned in the order of removal. Until this legal proceeding be consummated, the office cannot, it appears to me, be deemed vacant.

I object to the bill, therefore, not only because it proposes unnecessary special legislation, but because it is, in my judgment, unconstitutional.

JOHN T. HOFFMAN.

The Senate then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, and proceeded to the consideration of the special order, being the bill entitled as follows :

After some time spent therein the President resumed the chair, and Mr. Creamer, from said committee, reported in favor of the passage of said bill, with amendments.

Mr. Morgan moved to recommit said bill to the committee on canals, with instructions to substitute therefor the following :

"AN Act to provide for the more efficient repairs of the canals, by conferring additional powers on the Canal Commissioners, and the agents employed for maintaining unobstructed navigation."

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SECTION 1. In addition to the powers already conferred upon the Canal Commissioners of this State, each Commissioner in charge of a division of the canals is hereby authorized and required, within fifteen days after the passage of this act, and annually on or before the 15th day of January thereafter, to appoint three suitable persons as Canal Superintendents, to assist him in the general care and superintendence of the division of the canals under his charge, with power to remove them at pleasure, and to fill all vacancies occasioned by such removal or otherwise; but nothing in this section contained shall authorize the employment of more than three Superintendents on each division of the canals at any one time. The Commissioners shall assign to the care of each Superintendent appointed by him a specified portion of the canals within his division, and shall notify the Auditor of the Canal Department of all such appointments, and of the portion of the canals assigned to each Superintendent. It shall be the duty of the Board of Canal Commissioners, and they are hereby required, before making any appointments under this act, and from year to year when the annual appointments are made, and to fix and determine the salary (not to exceed two thousand dollars per annum) to be paid to each Superintendent, which shall be uniform and shall not be increased during such year; and shall file with the Auditor aforesaid a certified copy of the minutes of such proceedings. The compensation thus provided shall be paid by each Canal Commissioner to the Superintendents appointed by him, from any funds in his hands or subject to his draft, and appropriated for the maintenance and repairs of the canals.

§ 2. No Superintendent appointed under this act shall be engaged in any other business occupation, or interested, directly or indirectly, in any boats navigating the canals, but shall give his personal and constant attention to the discharge of the duties of his office. Nor shall such Superintendent either directly or indirectly be interested in any contract for labor, materials, repairs, or other thing connected with the canals; and shall not either directly or indirectly derive any benefit from the annual expenditures on the canals beyond his established compensation, and should any Superintendent, subsequent to his appointment, engage in any business occupation or become interested or derive any benefit or profit as aforesaid, he shall forfeit his appointment. Each Superintendent before he shall enter upon the discharge of his official duties shall take and subscribe the constitutional oath, and file the same in the clerk's office in the county where he resides, and shall transmit to the Auditor of the Canal Department the clerk's certificate that the oath of office has been thus filed.

§ 3. The duty of said Superintendents shall, under the directions of the Canal Commissioners, be such as relate strictly to the repairs of the canals and the maintenance of the navigation thereof. It shall be their duty to frequently pass over that portion of the canals committed to their charge and carefully examine the condition thereof, and to inspect the manner in which the work of repairs is being done by the several contractors thereon, and the quality of the materials being used in making such repairs; to see that the canals are well bottomed out to their original base line and width of prism; that the locks, waste-weirs and feeders are well and properly attended; that prompt and sufficient assistance is given to boats obstructed by bars, low water or jams; that the levels are kept filled up; that the towing-paths are kept in good condition; that all docking and coping thereof is properly repaired or reconstructed when necessary; that the ice in the canals is promptly broken to facilitate the passage of boats toward the close of navigation; to examine and ascertain whether the several repair contractors are executing and performing all and singular, the conditions, provisions and obligations of their several contracts, and generally to do and perform all such services in relation thereto as may be required of them by the Commissioners in charge of their respective superintendencies.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the Contracting Board or other officer, in whose custody the repair contracts may be, to furnish each Commissioner in charge with copies of all repair contracts in force within his division for the use of the several Superintendents appointed under this act.

§ 5. It shall also be the duty of a Superintendent whenever in his judgment a contractor for repairs on any of the canals assigned to his supervision is deficient and delinquent, or does not in all things fully and completely execute his contract, to immediately notify said contractor and the Commissioner in charge, in writing, specifying in what respect said contract is not being performed. The said Superintendent shall also report all deficiencies and delinquencies of repair contractors to the Canal Board whenever by resolution said Board shall require it, or to the Auditor of the Canal Department when he shall call upon them for such information. It shall be the duty of said Commissioner, upon receiving the notice aforesaid, to make immediate examination of the matter contained in said notice, and he shall make such provision as may be necessary to prosecute the work or such portions of it as in the opinion of said Commissioner may be necessary to secure navigation and keep said section in proper repair, and all expenses thereof shall be charged to the account of, and be deducted from the payments agreed to be paid to said delinquent contractor; and no draft shall be drawn by any Commissioner in favor of a contractor for repairs, unless the conditions of the contract are being strictly and promptly executed.

§ 6. In case of a break, or the failure of the banks of the canals, or any mechanical structure thereof, or an obstruction to navigation from any other cause, it shall be the duty of the Superintendent on that portion of the canal to proceed without delay to the place where such break or casualty may occur, and immediately notify the Canal Commissioner in charge of the character and extent of such break or obstruction. Should the repair contractor from any cause neglect, refuse or omit to enter promptly upon the work of repairing such break, or removing such obstruction, said Superintendent shall, under the direction of said Commissioner, proceed forthwith to make such repairs, or remove such obstructions as will insure the resumption of navigation at the earliest moment possible, and make and render to said Commissioner a detailed account of the cost thereof, which shall be deducted from any money due or to become due on the contract for the repairs of that section. But should the repair contractor promptly undertake the reparation and reconstruction of such break or structure, in accordance with the conditions of his contract, said Superintendent shall keep a just and true account of all the labor necessarily employed, and the material used in such repair or reconstruction, and the prices actually paid for the same, and upon the completion of the work, render a statement or abstract thereof to said Commissioner, duly authenticated. Until such statement is made, together with such other estimates and vouchers as are now required by law, no money shall be paid to or draft drawn in favor of such contractor on account of such work or for the payment of any material used therein. Any fraud or collusion between the Superintendent and contractor or between the Superintendent and Commissioner, or between any State official and contractor, or false swearing by said Superintendent, shall be deemed a felony, and any person convicted thereof shall be subject to imprisonment in the State prison for a term not less than one year or more than three, or by a fine of not less than five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court trying the offenders.

§ 7. Whenever charges shall be preferred against any Superintendent, appointed in pursuance of this act, for misconduct or neglect of duty, or for a violation of the previous section of this act, and said charges shall be specified in writing, duly authenticated, and the same shall be filed with the Auditor of the Canal Department, it shall be the duty of said Auditor, on receiving the same, to serve a copy thereof on the accused, and shall immediately give notice to the members of the Canal Board of a meeting of such Board to hear the proofs and allegations of the parties; and if the charges shall be sustained by a vote of said Board, the Superintendent shall be immediately dismissed, and shall not again be eligible to appointment except by the consent of a majority of all the members of said Board; and, in no case, when the dismissal is for a violation of the sixth section of this act, shall a Superintendent be reappointed; but it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General forthwith to institute such proceedings as, in his judgment, will lead to the arrest, conviction and punishment of the offender.

§ 8. It shall be the duty of the Canal Commissioners, and they are hereby required to carry out the provisions of section 9 of chapter 495 of the Laws of 1859, and in the execution thereof, when it shall be necessary, to pay to the owners of the boats employed by them for that purpose from any funds in their hands or subject to their draft and appropriated for the maintenance and repairs of the canals such compensation as to them shall seem reasonable and just. Should any such boats, while thus employed, be detained in consequence of low water or bars, or other impediments to navigation arising from the neglect or omission of any repair contractor to perform the conditions of his contract, the Commissioner in charge of the division of the canals, where said detention may occur, shall determine and pay to the owner of the boat a reasonable and just compensation for the time delayed, and retain the amount thereof from the first monthly allowance due and to be paid to the defaulting contractor.

§ 9. Any person who shall willfully obstruct the flow of water or the passage of boats through the canals, by the improper mooring of any boat or float for the time being in his charge, or which he may be navigating, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

§ 10. It shall be the duty of the said Commissioners and Superintendents and they are hereby authorized, in all cases of crowds or jams, to determine which boats or floats are the cause thereof, and to direct such movement of same or cause them to be moved, as they shall deem most advisable and proper, and all persons having charge of such boats or floats who shall refuse to obey, or any person who shall resist a Commissioner or Superintendent in the performance of such duty shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided in the previous section of this act. For the purpose of more effectually enforcing the provisions of this section, the said Commissioners and Superintendents shall possess all the statutory powers of constables, and may arrest anywhere within the jurisdiction of their office all offenders under this and the previous sections, and convey and deliver them to the proper officer or magistrate to be proceeded against according to law; and whenever it shall be necessary, said Commissioners and Superintendents are hereby empowered and authorized to command the assistance of any person or persons upon whom they may call in making such arrests.

§ 11. Every contract for repairs of the canals shall contain all the conditions expressed in the form of contract appended to the financial report of the Auditor, for the fiscal year ending with the 30th day of September last; but nothing herein contained shall prohibit its amendment so as to provide for greater efficiency, without lessening any of the liabilities or obligations of the contractor.

§ 12. The primary object of this act being to place in the hands of the Canal Commissioners exclusive control over the repair contractors, and the power and responsibility of enforcing the conditions and provisions of the contracts, therefore so much of all laws or parts of laws as conflict with the provisions of this act, or which authorizes the appointment or employment of Superintendents of repairs upon the canals of this State, except as provided in this act, are hereby repealed.

§ 13. This act shall take effect immediately.

From His Excellency the Governor was received and read, the following:

STATE OF NEW YORK—EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
ALBANY, March 17, 1869. }

SIR: I return without my signature, a bill entitled “An act to amend the laws relating to the appointment of a President pro tempore of the board of police,” which was passed in the Senate March 9, 1869, and in the Assembly March 12, 1869.

The bill relates to the Metropolitan police board, certain specified duties being performed only by the President of the board. He has, I am unable for several months to discharge his duties, and is absent from the State. To meet the difficulty caused by his sickness it is necessary that a new President, or a President pro tempore be appointed, and to that end this bill has been passed.

The bill provides for the appointment of three commissioners besides the absent President, and I have received, by a reference to the phraseology of the bill, that it was passed by the unanimous vote of the three, not only for the adoption of a resolution appointing a President pro tempore, but of any resolution to that effect. When all the commissioners are present a majority may pass any resolution. When three only are capable of attending to the power to defeat a resolution for the appointment of a President pro tempore, or for any other purpose, should not be given to the board. If this bill becomes a law either three commissioners can prevent any order being made affecting the duties of the superintendent, the transfer or detailment of officers, the appointment of officers when vacancies occur, or the removal of members of the force for neglect of duty or misconduct.

The bill does not therefore meet the difficulty occasioned by the absence of the President of the board, by merely providing as its title indicates, for the appointment of a President pro tempore; but it adds to the embarrassments already existing by placing it in the power of one commissioner to overrule his two associates on every question, and in effect to control and direct (with the aid of the superintendent,) the whole machinery and business of the Metropolitan police department.

JOHN T. HOFFMAN.

STATE OF NEW YORK—EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
ALBANY, March 25, 1869. }

To the Senate : I return without my signature a bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Excelsior Temple of Honor No. 23, of the city of Albany."

There is no necessity for this special bill. The provisions of the general law of the State for the incorporation of benevolent and charitable societies (see chapter 319 of the Laws of 1848, and amendments thereto,) are ample and sufficient for the purpose contemplated.

The originators of this bill, I am informed, were under an impression that by one clause in the general law, secret societies were excluded from its operation; but it will be seen, by reference to an amendment made in 1861, (see chapter 239, Laws of 1861,) that this clause has been stricken from the law.

er of "Temples of Honor" is increasing in this State, and al bills are already before the Legislature for their incorpo- erefore promptly return this one in order to call attention to aws under which these societies can be readily organized.

Whereas, during the year 1864, while the persons and armies employed in rebellion were exerting every power and influence to accomplish the dismemberment of this country and the overthrow of our government and the requirement became urgent and imperative for additional forces to resist the attempted usurpation of the so called Confederate States, the Federal Government pledged itself by specific legislative enactment, and guaranteed to each volunteer mustered into the service of the United States a bounty of one hundred dollars for the term of one year, unless sooner discharged ; and whereas the fourteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution ordains expressly that the validity of the debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services rendered in suppression of the rebellion shall not be questioned ; and whereas the Federal authorities have continued to withhold one-third of the amounts claimed by such volunteers, on the pretext that such volunteers were discharged before the expiration of the year, such volunteers having entered the service in good faith ; therefore,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That in the judgment of the Legislature of the State of New York, good faith on the part of the Federal Government requires that provision should be made and legislation had from Congress for the full payment of proffered bounties to soldiers enlisting as aforesaid, who served for at least three-fourths of the time specified.
